

How Do I Use The Search Function?

Frequently Asked Questions

- The item I'm looking for didn't come up within the news section.

This is an intelligent search function within most sections of the site, but be careful about what search term you use. Enter too broad a term, like Saddlebred and you'll receive so many items returned that it's still hard to find what you're looking for. Be as specific and precise in your search terms as possible.

- How do I see how a particular judge has judged a particular class or division in the past?

Simply enter the judge's name in the search field. Then click on the Judges tab. This will give you a list of the name of judges that are similar to your search term. Select the judge you are interested in learning about and a list of the horse shows he or she has judged will come up. See how often that person judges, or how long it's been since they judged. We began keeping this information in 2008.

If you want to take it a step further, then review the results from the horse shows they've judged and seek out your class or division. You can even drill down further to click on horses within those results to see how they did the rest of that year and the rest of their career. It's easy to spend a huge amount of time analyzing this data – don't get carried away!

What I can learn . . .

- You can see every horse show a particular judge has judged since 2008. Browse these shows to see who that judge has tied in your division.
- You can see the show ring career of individual riders, horses or owners since 1997.
- Trying to recall something you read in the Saddle Horse Report or Horse World? Search within the news tab and be sure to find it.

Where do I start?

In the green bar at the top of the page, is the main Search button. Simply enter in a horse's name or a person's name and five different tabs come up with choices similar to what you typed in.

Search Results

To make things easier to find, we have separated the results into individual tabs. If searching for an Equitation rider, they are listed under the HORSE tab.
