Saddle Horse Report is pleased to bring you its annual Breeders' Report, in its 16th year of recording. Each year, the report is designed to recognize and award the Saddlebred industry's premiere stallions who have produced show ring champions from the past year. The 2021 show season featured an impressive lineup of top sires, who accrued points from the victorious performances of their offspring as tracked through Saddle Horse Report's extensive database of show results. The Breeders' Report has become a beneficial resource for breeders and trainers alike to analyze crosses. It can thus be utilized as a tool to guide them as they advance their breeding and training programs.

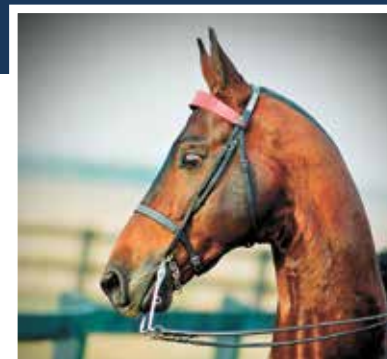

It is important to note the calculating process that is used to determine the top sires in the Breeders' Report. The total number of points given to each stallion is dependent on how many offspring showed and how many classes they showed in. In addition to the overall results, each stallion is ranked by division and by category within that division. The APG or average number of points per get is another important calculation, as it increases when the offspring succeed in their respective division. Additional details, points, and results for each horse featured on the Saddlebred Breeders' Report can be found in the results section of the Saddle Horse Report website at www.SaddleHorseReport.com.

The Top 10 sires for the 2021 season featured familiar names as well as an additional sire who returned to secure one of the elite top spots.
